

Permission obligation and prohibition worksheets

I'm not robot!

When we want to express permission, prohibition (not allowing something), obligation or no obligation we use modal verbs. Permission – can, may, could 'Can' is most often used to ask for or give permission but 'may' and 'could' are also possible even though they are not used as often as 'can'. Can I borrow a pen?You can sit here, the seat is free.Could I open the window?May I ask a question? Prohibition 'Can't' and 'mustn't' (must not) are used to show that something is prohibited (not allowed) You can't go into that restaurant without a tie. You can't drive in this country unless you are over eighteen. You mustn't use your phone in class. 'Can't' usually gives the idea of something that is against the rules. Mustn't usually means that it is the speaker who is setting the rule. Obligation 'Have to' and 'must' are both used to express obligation. There is a slight difference in the way that they are both used. 'Have to' shows that the obligation comes from someone else, not the speaker. This is usually referring to a rule or law.We have to be at the airport at least two hours before the flight.I have to work on Saturday.They have to wear their uniforms at school. 'Must' shows us that the obligation comes from the speaker.I must hand in my thesis by tomorrow.I really must call my parents. Here is an example of the difference between 'have to' and 'must'. My doctor said that I have to stop smoking or I'll risk serious problems. (I have no choice)I must stop smoking. It's costing me too much money. (it's my decision) We use 'don't have to' to show that there is no obligation. You can do something if you want but it is not an obligation. You don't have to wear a tie to go to that restaurant but it would be nice. You didn't have to call for me. I could have got a taxi. Students don't have to wear uniforms to school. Lesson by Tristan Now choose the correct verb for these sentences: In this fun modals of obligation running dictation activity, students practice completing and writing rules for various places. One student is the reader and the other is the writer. The reader runs to Text A, reads the first sentence, remembers it, runs back and dictates it to the writer who writes the sentence on the back of their worksheet. This continues until all the sentences in Text A have been dictated. The students then swap roles for Text B and the process is repeated. Next, students refer to the sentences they just wrote down and complete rules with the modals of obligation: must, mustn't, have to, don't have to, should or shouldn't. Students then read the sentences and decide which rules are for a museum and which are rules for a swimming pool. The first pair to do this correctly wins. Afterwards, pairs think of a place and write five rules for that place using modals of obligation. Finally, students go around the class reading their sentences to other pairs who try to guess the place being described. Finish!!
